Cost

- Artists are responsible for covering their travel and accommodation costs, which are non-refundable. Primavera Foundation Armenia is not responsible for any costs associated with logistics. In the event of project cancellations or postponements due to unforeseen circumstances, Primavera Charitable Foundation will communicate alternative options but holds no liability for reimbursing these expenses.

The Selection Committee

- The Selection Committee, comprising representatives from Prima Classic, Primavera Charitable Foundation's Artistic Council, and Educational Academy Program curators, will evaluate applicants based on musical quality, originality, cultural relevance, and potential for artistic growth. Selected participants may be required to participate in promotional events, media appearances, and additional performances as part of the project's public engagement efforts.

Program Requirements

- All pieces submitted to the Selection Committee must be recorded / submitted to be recorded in full;
- At least one piece by an Armenian composer must be featured in the program. Should an artist's area of expertise be Armenian music, the all-Armenian program is welcomed;
- An artist has the artistic freedom to choose between famous repertoire that has been recorded many times, less-known pieces, or contemporary composers.

The organizers' advice to the participating artists is to choose wisely, keeping two concepts in mind: novelty vs known piece and which option will better serve your artistic career.
